53rd WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Nilsson celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary Saturday, March 30th, when the members of their immediate family gathered at the home of Bert Nilsson, a son residing in Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Nilsson are well-respected pioneers of Raymond, having lived here over 33 years, coming from Monroe, Sevier County, Utah. Both are past seventy years of age.

During the afternoon all the grandchildren living in Raymond, and one, Mrs. Robert Lawson, living in Lethbridge—22 in number, and also a great-grandchild, entertained their grandparents with a program of appropriate readings given by Lindsey, Margaret, Eudora and Marie Nilsson and Joan and Gordon Ford. Community singing was enjoyed. Fancy dancing by Shirley and Iris Nilsson; song and piano solo by Erma and Carl Allred. "Grandma" Nilsson gave two readings, one of which was original, written for her grandchildren when they were small.

Mr. and Mrs. Nilsson are the parents of 13 children. A history of their lives was read, showing very eventful and useful lives. Both were pioneers in the early days of Utah when hostile Indians frequently drove the settlers from their homes.

A unique feature of the occasion was the presentation of the grandchildren by the little great grandchild Sylvia Christensen of a beautifully decorated wedding cake and tea rose plant in bloom to the honored guests. At six o'clock a hot supper was served by the ladies of the family to 35 persons. After supper an enjoyable evening was spent in contest games. Mr. and Mrs. Nilsson's eldest and youngest sons and their families reside in Utah and could not be present for the happy occasion.

IDLERS WIN FROM NORMALITES 38 - 27

The game which decided the Provincial Intermediate Championship in basketball was played here Saturday night between the Calgary Normal and the Raymond Idlers. The game was a close one throughout, and featured close checking and swift passing, the Idlers stalling in the dying moments of the game to hold their small lead. The score at half time read 20-7 for the Idlers. The final score was 38-27 for Raymond.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT--

In business depressions strong minds increase their efforts, while little men prance and dance about like a bob-tail horse in fly time.

Business must be conducted on a basis of profit. A business that depends on its reputation for cheapness will soon earn a cheap reputation. The customer is more concerned in quality, service and courtesies than in the saving of a little money and the loss of satisfaction.

There is no influence in business so valuable as a kind voice, no stock in store that equals in influence a friendly smile, no price has so much pulling power as dependable service, no advertising is so far reaching as a square deal.

The best test of every man in business is in the manner or method he employs, and the ethics he follows in everyday life.

The soundest rule ever written on business is the Golden Rule. When we "do others," others combine to do us. The result is a hundred or more against one. The odds are too great.

WOE IS MAN!

Man is of few days and full of trouble. He laboreth all the days of his youth to pay for a gasoline buggy, and when at last the task is finished, lo! the thing is junk, and he needeth another.

He planteth cotton in the earth, and till it diligently, he and his servants, and his asses and when the harvest is gathered into barns he oweth the landlord eight dollars and forty cents more than the crop is worth.

He borroweth money to buy pork and the interest eateth up all he hath.

He begets sons and educateth them to smoke cigarettes and wear white collars and lo! they have soft hands and neither labor in fields nor anywhere under the sun. The children of his loins are onery and one of them becometh a lawyer, one a banker, and another sticketh up a filling station and maketh whoopee with the substance thereof.

The wife of his bosom necketh a stranger and when he rebukes her, lo! she shooteth him in the finale.

He goeth forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city and a jitney smiteth him so that his ribs project through his epidermi. He drink eth of whoopee juice to forget his sorrows and it burneth the lining from his liver.

All the days of his life he findeth no parking place and is tormented by traffic cops from his going forth until he cometh back. An enemy stealeth his car; physicians remove his inner parts and his teeth and his bank roll, his daughter showeth her legs to strangers; his arteries hardeneth in the evening of life and his heart breaks trying to keep pace.

Sorrows and bill collectors followed him all the days of his life; and when he is gathered to his fathers the neighbors sayeth: "How much did he leave. Lo! he hath left it all—And now his widow rejoiceth in a new coupe and maketh eyes at a young sheik that slicketh his hair and playeth a nifty game of bridge.

Woe is man! From the day of his birth to the time when earth knoweth him no more, he laboreth for bread and catcheth the devil. Dust he was in the beginning and his name is mud.

Editor's note:—There might be considerable truth in the above, despite its flippant wording.

Social Credit Meeting Held At High School

(As written by Mr. Clark)

The Social Credit meeting held in the High School on Monday, April 1st, went over with a wow, as per usual. A fine and enthusiastic crowd attended. John Blackmore reported the rapid growth and enthusiasm of the Social Credit movement, as he had observed it in Lethbridge, Barnwell, Sundial Travers and Warner, in which centres he had addressed eager and intelligent groups during the past week. Mr. Merrif discussed the topic, "The Monetization of Wealth," showing that there is a tremendous reservoir of wealth from which the money can come. It was emphasized, in answer to questions, that there need be no taxation and that there would be no taxation and that Social Credit can be made to work in Alberta, that it does not violate the B.N.A. Act nor the Bank Act. A contribution was taken and the meeting was closed by the singing of the national anthem.

The people in this district deem Social Credit as the ONLY solution to solve the predicament in which we find ourselves at the present time. Of course, we have in our midst a few who walk around as if dead as far as Social Credit is concerned.

We want criticism. That's what brings out the good points in anything; but the people who are the critics, as a rule, find some old tune and dance to it rather than spending some of their idle talking hours, and reading some good literature which will give them the fundamentals of the Social Credit scheme. What we want at the present time is a government by the people and for the people, not a government by the people and for the government. We have that form of government, which is the Social Credit scheme.

Our delegates are all hopped up and ready for Calgary, and there will be plenty of discussion on Social Credit while there. These discussions will be of interest to every resident of Alberta, so pick the easiest chair and crowd up to the radio and at the returns hot from the mike.

MOVIE COMEDY IN REAL LIFE

A Portland, Ore. thief stole $5 from a cash till and was caught by employees. While they argued what to do with him he broke away, grabbed a tray of pastry and fled. Baker Dominico Manero and a passerby gave chase. The thief looked back to see if pursuit was near ran into a telephone pole and knocked himself out. As Manero and his aide were gathering up the silver that fell from his hand the thief recovered, stuffed a cake into his mouth and escaped on the rear of a passing street car.

Sunday Night at 2nd Ward

The speakers at the 2nd Ward Sunday evening were Elder Stanford and Elder Alvin Jones. They both gave very interesting talks on the prevention of war. WORKMEN KILLED

A number of workmen were reported killed on Friday last in Sulmona, Italy. Their lives were taken by poison gas, when a reservoir of liquid chlorine burst in a chemical factory. First reports said many workmen died inside the building, while others, who escaped to open air, died as a result of the fumes they had inhaled.

How To Know Canadians

I had just finished eating my breakfast in Noble's restaurant on Broadway, in Oakland, California, and was walking down the aisle to the cashier's desk, when I noticed a gentleman sitting at a table.

"Pardon me," I said, "you will not be offended if I ask you a question?" "Not a bit," said he, good naturedly. "What part of Canada are you from?" I queried. "How did you know I was from Canada?" he replied. "You will not be offended if I tell you," I again ventured. "No," said he. "Well," said I, "any time I see a man drinking tea out of a saucer he comes from Canada."

He was a good sport and freely admitted it. He came from Palmerston, Ontario. Lethbridge Herald.

New Deal For Debtors

Action under the Farmer Creditor Act is going steadily forward, and the work of the Board of Review is being widely commended. An example of a very drastic adjustment was found in the agreement reached in the district receiver's office of Calgary. Mortgages totalling $30,000 were held against a section of land in the Calgary district. Two parties holding the 30,000 agreements, went to the meeting of creditors and stated that the land in question had been sold at too high a figure. They voluntarily cut off $21,000. Lesser creditors interested to the amount of $3,000 made generous reductions also, with the result that the debtor has an entirely new basis of arrangement and a new hope of payment. This instance is one of the most outstanding.

In most cases somebody has to take a loss, and the creditor himself is often in quite as difficult a plight as the debtor, because he still has to meet his undertakings on the only basis of payment.

Mr. Justice Ewing, chairman of the Board of Review, emphasizes constantly the necessity for a background of character and good faith. If an applicant shows industry and a determination to meet obligations if he can, that applicant in most instances finds creditors ready to co-operate in formulating possible proposals. But if a farmer has shown a disposition to shirk obligations and disregard the just requirements of creditors, he does not justify any great faith in further promises.

In 1918 it took a workman all day to make 40 electric light bulbs; in 1919 a machine was invented that made 73,000 bulbs in twenty four hours.

REDUCING BY EXERCISE

No vigorous exercise should be attempted without first consulting your physician. But if you are fat "in spots", there are exercises which will reduce you in this way.

If you are what I would call a puffy "fat," you must face the issue and first cut out sweets, the starches and the fat for a time but balance the diet with plenty of fresh vegetables, fruit and game.

If you are fat for instance at the base of the neck or if your upper arms are too large, I would suggest a good reducing soap or jelly—attacking these spots directly from the outside.

The hips may be reduced by sitting on the floor, clasping the arms around the knees, and rocking back and forth from side to side.

Walking is excellent. Put on a heavy sweater and walk for three miles at a good zipping rate. Then come home and take a bath and have a little rest. A brisk walk, morning and evening, will result in loss of flesh.

Bicycling and roller skating, so popular with our young moderns is splendid to keep one supple and in good condition, as well as to take off excess weight.

A very good supplement to your reducing program is to fast one day a week on delicious nourishing vegetable bouillon, and the juice of freshly crushed grapes. This will do wonders towards eliminating the puffy fat that attacks some types.

Don't forget when you are cutting down on oil, butter and fats in your diet, your skin is liable to show the results by becoming dry and lined. You must therefore, supply nourishment from the outside, in the form of a rich, feeding cream which will keep the face young and unlined.

If you will write to this column and explain just where your fat spots are, you will be sent an individual set of exercises to cope with them.

NEXT—Dieting to reduce.

IS CLEVER ARCHITECT

A BLACKSMITH'S WILL

Man with Mentality of Child
Designs Modern Houses

Model modern houses designed by an architect who thinks he is dead have been on show in London at one of the most extraordinary exhibitions ever held. All the exhibits in the show have been made by mental defectives and some of their workmanship displays sheer genius.

Woodcarving by a boy of 14 with a mental age of seven, is described by experts as "literally amazing."

Visitors were told of a man whose normal capacities are so small that he can hardly feed himself. Yet he can answer the most puzzling mathematical problems with hardly a moment's hesitation.

The exhibits were arranged by the board of control (lunacy and mental deficiency) department of the ministry of health. The object is to illustrate how the state is helping to develop the latent talents of mental defectives with beneficial results.

A blacksmith with a sardonic humor drafted his will in the following manner:

I leave my equity in the business, and my car, to my son. He will have to go to work to keep up the payments.

My good will in the business I leave to the jobbers who sold me the goods. They took some awful chances and are entitled to something.

My shop equipment and tools I bequeath to the junk man—he has had his eye on them for a long time.

I want at least six local farmers to act as pallbearers. I have carried them so long that I feel it is their turn to carry me for a little.

I direct all funeral expenses to be paid from my shop. Ask my helpers to keep track of these expenses. I never could get them to keep track of the expenses of turning out a job.

As regards flowers—I got so few bouquets when I was alive that my fellow blacksmiths need not bother when I am dead. Bury the coal shovel at my right hand. I may need it.

ANNUAL PASTURES

Shortage of pasture is frequently a problem on many farms, especially following years of drought, and many farmers are anxious to seed a crop that will give them pasture at an early date. In such cases annual or winter annual crop, such as fall rye fall wheat and oats give best results. Following is part of a letter in which this subject was discussed a year ago and which your writer is taking the liberty of repeating at this time.

At both the Lethbridge and Swift Current Stations these grains have been found quite satisfactory for both pasture and hay and they are the easiest to grow where moisture is limited. In fact, under dry land conditions these grains when used as fodder crops have yielded much heavier than grasses and legumes. Moreover, no extra equipment is needed to seed or harvest them and the larger seeds can be sown deep enough to obtain ready germination while the surface of the soil can be left lumpy to check drifting. Another advantage of fall wheat and fall rye is that these may be seeded any time in the early spring in the summer or fall.

Higher yields of better quality feed are obtained by using a mixture of at least two crops such as fall rye one-half bushel and oats one bushel per acre, or fall wheat and oats. If available more grains may be used and following is a mixture recommended by W. D. Hay, Cerealist at this station: fall rye 15 pounds per acre, fall wheat 15 pounds, oats 15 pounds, spring wheat 10 pounds and barley 10 pounds per acre. A mixture such as this adds plenty of variety and also has the advantage of utilizing a wide assortment of seeds that may be available on the farm. On the other hand fewer grains will give very satisfactory results though either fall rye or fall wheat, or both, should make up the bulk of the mixture.

Barley comes up quickly but it makes little or no second growth after being once eaten off, spring wheat is a little better in this regard whereas fall rye, fall wheat and oats all keep on making new growth when pastured providing of course the soil does not get too dry. Fall rye has long been highly regarded as a valuable annual pasture if seeded the year before and summer and fall pasture when seeded in the spring. Fall wheat compares very well with fall rye and is somewhat more palatable.

Annual fodder crops are not to be recommended in place of perennial hay and pasture crops in areas of more favorable rainfall or where irrigation is available, excepting in cases of emergency, but in the drier areas annual crops such as fall rye, fall wheat and some of the coarse grains are undoubtedly the sure.

est crops and offer, it seems, the most dependable means of providing pasture and hay feeds.

A Correction

Your writer wishes to make a correction in last week's letter dealing with spring feeding of bees. The term "entrance feeder" was used when "bottom feeder" was intended. Entrance feeding is not used here because it encourages robbing. Detail for making a bottom feeder can be obtained by writing to this station.

HEALTH

MEASLES

One of the most common of the really serious menaces to the lives and health of young children is measles, a disease which is considered by many parents to be nothing more than an annoying incident in the life of a child.

Measles is the most readily spread of all the communicable diseases. It is the most difficult to control of all because the patient may transmit the disease to others before the rash appears, at a time when measles is not even suspected.

The ordinary symptoms of a cold in the head mark the onset of the disease. The only safe way to deal with the child who has the symptoms of a cold is to put him to bed in a room by himself. This protects the child, for bed is the best place for him if he has a cold, or if a communicable disease is coming on. It also protects the other children to whom he might spread whatever he has if he is allowed to be up and around.

The younger the child, the more serious is measles. It is during the second year of life that so many young children die from measles. It is for this reason that care should be taken to protect children from exposure during the first five years of life.

It is almost impossible to escape measles entirely because the disease is so contagious. The parents who succeed in protecting their children during the first five years of life have accomplished a great deal. The parents who heedlessly or thoughtlessly expose their young children to measles are taking a grave risk with the lives of their little ones.

The child with measles should be in bed in a well ventilated room. Most of the deaths from measles are due to the complications, notably pneumonia, and these complications very frequently develop from negligence, particularly in allowing the little patient to get out of bed too soon.

When it is known that a young child or a delicate child has been exposed to measles, the family physician should be consulted. The injection of blood drawn from a person who has recently recovered from measles will prevent or modify the attack. Because practically all adults have had measles at some time blood from the parents may be used for this purpose.

To secure results these injections of convalescent measles blood serum or adult serum must be given as soon after exposure as can be arranged. The protection conferred is transient and unless the child develops a mild attack, no permanent resistance remains. Much has been accomplished and much more can be done to safeguard young children who have been inadvertently exposed to measles than the use of the blood from convalescents or parents.

NOT ALWAYS IMITATIVE

WOMAN INVENTS DEVICE FOR FINDING AND IDENTIFYING RADIO STATIONS

Nearly all the psychologists agree that the feminine mind is quick and intuitive, but always imitative, never inventive. And now, with the example of Mrs. Richardson of Shepherd's Bush before them, they can guess again, for she has won the first prize at the International Exhibition of Inventions with her device for finding and identifying radio stations. She may puzzle the psychologists but will surprise nobody who has seen the improvements any woman can make with string, hairpins, match sticks and other household tools on the crude mechanical products of her own kitchen. But woman still rocks the cradle by hand.

A Personal Card

Canada's Act of Thanksgiving --- Let All Possible Contribute

Object of Fund

The fund is for Canadian research and action, and all the proceeds will be spent in the Dominion.

Operation of Fund

The trustees of the fund will confine their functions to receiving applications for grants to aid against cancer from official or voluntary bodies. The following ad, appearing in a paper in a nearby town might be worth considering:

"I want a man to work on my farm. I don't give dancing lessons and I have no piano. I can't give plank steak three times a day; I do give three square meals a day, and a real bed and fair wages. If any man who knows a cow from a talkin' machine can hear an alarm clock and get up at six o'clock wants a job, I will agree and to treat him like one of the family, but a damned sight better."

And how are you, Robinson? Make the weather report. Changeable? No, dry, with little or no change.

William, you weren't listening to what I said.

Er-What makes you think that, Carolyn?

I asked you if you had five pounds, and you smiled and said Yes, dearest.

He had to tell his car because the outgo for the upkeep was too much for his income.

The now vacant quarters between Bett's Shoe Shop and Canadian Utilities Ltd. will be occupied by a Beauty Parlor, which will be operated by Miss Fern Wilde.

Leonard Melhew's small son had a terrible accident on Wednesday. While playing with 2 other children, his third finger was severed by a door being slammed shut on it.

J. U. and C. E. Alfred returned on Tuesday from a trip to Utah, where they went to attend the funeral of their mother, a former resident of Raymond.

Boy Scouts in uniform will canvass in this district on Saturday, April 6th or Saturday, 13th for the King George V Silver Jubilee Canned Food, according to word received from the provincial headquarters at Calgary.

At each home or place of business, the scouts will leave an envelope bearing the name and address of the Countess of Bessborough. The Scouts are not collecting funds. Those wishing to assist this worthy work will then enclose their contribution, seal and mail the envelope. No stamps are required. They will then receive a personal acknowledgement from Lady Bessborough from Ottawa.

One of the most delightful bridge parties of the season was given by Miss Walscott. It was enjoyed by a group of sixteen ladies on Wednesday afternoon. High score was won by Mrs. C. R. Wing and Mrs. C. D. Compton won first in the bird game contest. A very delicious lunch was served by the hostess—One of the Guests.

Manager—"What's the idea of sitting out here absolutely silent for five minutes?"
Saxophonist—"That was a request number."

1886: "Oh, mamma dear, I scarcely know what to tell you. But Algernon—er—Mr. Blither—has spoken to me, and he wants to come and see you and papa to ask your consent to . . . (blushes, swoons).
1936: "Well, I've decided." (powder, face, light cigarette)

"Ah," said the vicar genially, "how pleasant to see you again! And I; this your most charming wife?"
"This," said the former curate gently, "is only my wife."

A wheel barrow will stand on it; two legs and never move unless you lift it up and push it along. So would business. You've got to pick it up and push it along. Business is made up of the hands and heart, thought and hand; throbs of an organization. Merchandise is merely the stuff sold.

Both the High and Public Schools were closed for an indefinite period due to an outbreak of Scarletina which is spreading rapidly. A number of pupils have been dismissed during the past few days with symptoms of this disease, and the game scheduled for Wednesday night in the Opera House, which was the second game in a three game series between the Magrath and Raymond High Schools, was called off a few minutes before the game was to commence. Many pupils were heard on their way home Thursday morning, singing "Happy Days are Here Again."

There will be a strict quarantine of the town owing to the spread of Scarletina. At a meeting of the Health Board held on Wednesday, it was decided to close both the public and High schools. On Thursday the Health and the School Board met and Secretary O. H. Snow was asked to get in touch with the deputy minister of health at Edmonton. After careful consideration of the situation at Raymond, it was recommended that a strict quarantine be enforced and all families where Scarletina had been found be held under quarantine for a period of four weeks.

A ban will be placed on all public gatherings, whether movies, ball games or meetings of any kind. Innoculation is not necessary except where there has been direct exposure.

DESOLATION

My harp is crushed
Neath the wheels of Greed—
My garden of Hope
Is choked with Weed.
I cannot sing
Tho' the stars invite—
Tho' the suns glow golden
I see no light!

To the Plunderer's thirst
I have Paid and Paid—
But the Plunderer's thirst
Is unallayed.

Work of my hands
And Dream of my brain—
All are but Dust
Neath Mammon's train.
Shelter I've builded
Fields I've tilled;
Hopes I've scattered
Like sunlight spilled—
All are crushed
And swept away—
And the Plunderer still Cries: "Pay! Pay! Pay!"

THE KNOCKER

After God had created the buzzard, the snake, the scorpion, the cootie and all other repulsive noisome creatures which are put on earth or in its waters to make decent mortals thankful that they are not such as they, he had a little substance left which was so unspeakably vile that it could not be incorporated in anything else which he had yet made. But he had to do something with it, so he made the knocker.

A knocker is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-soaked brain and a combination backbone of jelly and glue. Where other men have their hearts he carries a tumor of decayed principles. When the knocker comes down the street, honest men turn their back; the angel weeps in heaven and the devil shuts tight the door of hell to keep him out. Therefore, DON'T be a knocker. You can't saw wood with a hammer.—Ex.
